Models Win Second At Lions Jamboree

The Didsbury girls' softball team made their debut appearance last Wednesday at the Lions Jamboree, playing Innisfail in the first game of the afternoon and Red Deer in the final. The locals played a stand-out game against Innisfail to win by a 13-1 score in nine innings of play. Clara Schneidmiller was particularly effective, hitting safely five times out of five and fielding well.

In the second game the Red Deer Clippers managed to get first money for the day with a narrow 16-15 win over Didsbury. Appearing over-confident, the Models committed numerous errors at critical times to allow the Clippers to pile up a lead which they held to the end of the game. A rally by Didsbury in the ninth allowed the score but a sensational running catch by left fielder Moen of the Clippers saved the day for Red Deer. Marjorie Goetjen pitched both games for Didsbury.

At the Olds fair Friday, Millers Combines and McCullough's Models again entertained an enthusiastic crowd with an interesting game. After nine innings of play the Combines were leading by a close 10-8 score, and were worthy winners. The Didsbury Models were erratic in their fielding due to lack of practice, but the girls proved they are capable of playing a better brand of ball with several spectacular catches on numerous occasions.

Didsbury-Schneidmiller, Wood, Folkmann, Goetjen, Bagshaw, Fox, Luft, Irwin, Krebs, Olds-Markin, Herbert, Hodgson, Madsen, Miller, Carter, McLeod, Knacht, Hodgeson, and others. Next games: Didsbury at Calgary, Wednesday, August 16. Calgary at Didsbury-It is to be hoped that arrangements can be made to have the RCAF girls here Friday or Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Krebs were Calgary visitors Thursday last.

The infant sons of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hogg and Mr. and Mrs. Colin Hogg were christened at Knox United Church, Westcott, on Sunday last, receiving the names of Kenneth Arnold and Norman George respectively. Afterwards their parents and Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson and Mrs. O. Krebs were dinner guests with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hogg.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Neufeld of Calgary have been spending a few days with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cowitz.

Quite a number of people from the west attended the ball game between the Darkies and Melvin in town Monday night, out as usual time had to be called for rain. Leonard Cowitz received a nasty jolt when hit in the face by an overthrown ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hogg attended the wedding of the latter's brother, Mr. Gordon Wilson, to Miss Norma Rigby at the home of the bride's parents Friday, July 28. The happy couple will make their home in Cromona.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hasegood and Mrs. J. Hasegood called on Mr. and Mrs. P. Bird of Garfield on Thursday evening, it being their 40th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. O. Thompson, Mrs. O. Krebs and Mrs. A. L. Hogg were among those calling on Mrs. McInnes Sr. after the W.I. convention Thursday last.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hogg were supper guests with Mr. and Mrs. W. Rigby Tuesday of last week.

We were sorry to hear of the death of the wee son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross, who died from injuries he received when caught in a power washing machine. Mrs. Ross was the former Dolly Spencer of Cromona and at one time taught school at Rugby.

Mr. George McNair is at present staying with his sister, Mrs. Art Wahl. Our deepest sympathy goes out to Mrs. Wahl and Helen in their recent sad bereavement.

Twelve Rugby W.I. members attended the W.I. conference at Knox United Church, Didsbury, Thursday of last week. We were sorry to hear that the town ladies were not invited to visit the handicraft display in the public school. We are sure they would have found it very much worthwhile as there were many lovely exhibits.

Mrs. J. Hasegood and Mrs. D. Hasegood visited Friday afternoon with Mrs. Art Wahl.

Here's what a kitchen in Morris, Manitoba, looked like after the Red River had done its worst. The warped cupboards, peeling paint, damaged kitchen utensils and almost unlimited quantities of mud and dirt, are illustrative of the damage done to F. Reckseidler's entire home. British Coast Towns
That Have Vanished

In describing what the sea has done, and is still doing, on the coast of Great Britain, a London writer says:

If a map of England were placed before you, and you were asked to put your finger on Dunwich, you would probably be all at sea. That, as a matter of fact, is just where most of Dunwich is today—at sea, or, rather, at the bottom of it.

The ruins of an old church are all that remain of this once important port, which in its prime was more important than Ipswich or Yarmouth. Some idea of its size may be gained from the fact that it possessed "52 churches, chapels, religious houses, hospitals, a king's palace, a bishop's seat, a mayor's mansion and a mint."

Where are they now? The waves washed over them. They are 'dead.' The tides of the East Coast flow over many a drowned city of the past. According to legend, visitors to Cromer may hear the chimes of Cromer's ancient church clanging away out at sea when the storms lash into the belfry. Certain it is that two miles from the cliffs, the old town of Shinliden lies, and bits of it may be detected today on the rocks at low tide.

It is quite gruesome to climb down some of Norfolk cliffs. Not long ago the writer explored the cliffs under the famous 'Garden of Sleep', three miles from Cromer. There had been a fresh landslide during the night, and he came upon old skulls and bones which had once lain peacefully at rest in a quiet graveyard. They lie there, waiting until the next fall of cliff carries them out into the tide.

Yorkshire has suffered particularly, in spite of the great sums that have been spent protecting the coast. No one can tell how many towns it has lost.

A Dozen Vanishing Villages
In the district of Ravenspur there are a dozen vanished villages. Nor will you find Ravenspur marked on any modern map. It was once a great seaport and market town.

The ocean advanced on it in a series of fierce onslaughts. "From day to day," an old deed recorded of the surrounding villages, "these places became so far waste, being tossed by impetuous waves every day and night."

The sea carried out a kind of sneciling movement, so Ravenspur was wiped out.

Skegness is about a shadow of its former greatness. Its castle, church, marketplace and fortification are among the breakers.

But it is not only on the east coast that the sea has driven its way inland. It is the same story all the way around.

Old Brighton lies beyond its longest pier. The mysterious land named Lyonesse once joined the Scilly Isles at Carnwell, and was rich in tin. Turn to your atlas, and note the "wedge" of the Bristol Channel. The sea has shaped that wedge, advancing over land that was once high and dry. A tremendous tract has been lost in Cardigan Bay.

Probably one of the most curious sights which the ocean still allows us to see at low tide is in the vicinity of Gwynedd's City, one of Wales' lost spots. Parts of four roads, which have not been used for over 1,400 years are uncovered. The roads are elevated, as

FRESH MILK BLUES

Summer weather poses a stiff problem for the housewife who must keep milk fresh without the aid of refrigerator or icebox. Although sour milk has its uses, fresh milk is essential and wise housewives will check up on methods of keeping the products cool. Your local or provincial health department can suggest easy methods of protecting milk from the heat.

I.O.D.E. BUYS ROYAL CARPET

The grosspoint carpet worked by H.R.H. Queen Mary has been sold to the I.O.D.E. in Canada for $100,000 in the first instance. The I.O.D.E. propose to show the carpet at C.N.E. Toronto, in August and on a national tour. Proceeds over and above $100,000 from these shows and from a national fund to which all Canadians will be given an opportunity to contribute, will be added to the purchase price. The carpet will ultimately be turned over to the National Gallery of Canada for public showing.

the old British highways always were, and are quite distinct as they stretch away into the sea.

ANOTHER CONSCRIPTION CRISIS

If war comes again will we have another crisis over conscription? Recently the Financial Post asked a group of well informed citizens about the problem. Their answers suggest that conscription would be inevitable and would be regarded by the public generally as so.

But it was suggested that to make the proposition more thoroughly acceptable as essential to victory there would have to be more determined government leadership on the question than in previous wars, that the fairness and necessity of the system should be brought home to the public early in the developing crisis.

BRITISH FOOD POLICY

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the British exchequer, said that the government will continue to get as much of Britain's food requirements from Canada as she can afford to pay for in dollars. This statement was made in reply to opposition suggestions that food purchases in Canada be increased in view of mounting dollar reserves in Britain.

Britain's accumulation of dollar reserves has now reached a sum in excess of $2,422,000,000.

TO CANADIAN RAILROADERS AND THE CANADIAN PUBLIC

It is important that you understand clearly why the managements of Canada's railways believe a railway strike is absolutely unnecessary.

Our reason for this conviction is that we have made the employees involved in the present dispute a fair offer of wage increases and improvements in working conditions which, if applied to all employees, will cost us $37,000,000 a year.

We have further acknowledged a moral obligation to implement the 40-hour week at the appropriate time, and we have explained why, in fairness to Canadian industry and all other employers of labour, we cannot put it into effect now.

To do otherwise would be to perform a disservice to industry in general and to all employers and employees alike.

The railways, after making two previous offers which the union leaders rejected, have now made

Not only is a railway strike unnecessary now, but furthermore, because of the tense international situation, it would endanger the entire Dominion. As the presidents of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways said in a joint statement to the representatives of the unions last Thursday:

"The present situation... imposes a nerve strain on all concerned at a time when we badly need to devote all our energies and thoughts to the grave threat of war and a national emergency... It leaves the railway employee in a most uncertain and unhappy frame of mind because we are morally certain he does not wish to walk out on his job at a time like this, no matter what issues are involved... this opinion seems diametrically opposed to the strike ballot which has been reported by the unions, but Railway management retains too high an opinion of the loyalty, steadfastness and sense of responsibility of their employees to believe a strike would not mean a heart-breaking situation for them. That is not to say they will not carry out their undertaking to strike if union leaders decide to call upon them to do so but as already stated, it will cause great unhappiness and self-reproach."

The importance of the railways in Canada's economy cannot be exaggerated. Never was that importance more apparent than in World War II. And without the loyalty and intense effort of all railway employees, Canada's magnificent war effort would have been ima third and final offer which gives the employees the choice of either:

an increase in wages averaging 8½ cents per hour, or a reduction in the basic work week from 48 to 44 hours, with an increase in wage rates of 9.1% so as to maintain or in some cases improve present "take home" pay.

The labour leaders have made no concessions at all and have refused to budge from their original demands for a 5-day 40-hour week with maintenance of present "take home" pay, and in addition increases of 7 cents and 10 cents an hour.

The railways are thoroughly conscious of, and sympathetic to, the problems of their employees resulting from higher costs of living.

Drastic, unwarranted reductions in hours of work instead of decreasing these problems will inevitably increase them.

possible. The same holds true today. As the presidents further state:

"... the general public is inconvenienced and business arrangements are made uncertain so long as the likelihood of a strike persists. Moreover, a railway strike would so cripple our economy that it would weaken for a long time our ability to take a strong line in international affairs and thus give great comfort to the enemy. Therefore, railway management feels strongly that the issues must be faced resolutely so that all interests, the worker, the public, and the Government, as well as the unions and railway management, will know precisely what is facing them. The time has come to remove this uncertainty which hangs as a blight over our day-to-day life."

WITH THESE CONSIDERATIONS IN MIND, THE RAILWAYS HAVE MADE THIS OFFER AS THE ULTIMATE THAT COULD POSSIBLY BE EXPECTED OF THEM, AND IT GIVES A SETTLEMENT WHICH WILL LEAVE RAILWAY WORKERS IN AN EXTREMELY FAVOURABLE POSITION COMPARED TO OTHER INDUSTRIAL WORKERS.

HERE IS OUR OFFER

The final offer which excludes hotel and water transport employees is as follows:

- (1) Recognition by railway management of a moral obligation to implement the 40-hour week at the appropriate time.
- (2) Recognition by the unions in principle, subject to negotiation in detail, of minor amendments to existing contracts covering working rules to bring about more efficient operation.
- (3) EITHER

(A) A 44-hour basic work week with a 9.1% increase in hourly rates

so as to maintain "take home" pay. In regard to monthly rated clerical employees there will be an understanding that the 5-day actual work week may be granted by local arrangement in selected cases where the hours now actually worked are less than 44, on condition that the requirements of the service are protected up to 44 hours per week.

OR (B) A graduated increase in basic wage rates approximately equivalent in expense to that involved under Plan A. When applied to all employees, this would cost the railways $37,000,000 per year, and would average 8½ cents per hour.

Agricultural SERVICE BOARD NOTES

W.K. Snyder,
Field Supervisor

Several days ago I came across several patches of Blue Lettuce. This weed is not familiar to most people, so for those who wonder what to look for here is the description.

Native, deep rooted, perennial, stems 2 to 3 feet, leafy below, whole plant is smooth and covered with a fine bloom. The stalk and leaves are filled with a milky juice. The leaves are variable linear lance shaped or oblong. The flower heads are nearly 1 inch across, pale blue, center of flower is the same color as the outer petals.

The seed is ripe by late July and early August.

Propagation—by seeds and fleshy, deep, persistent running root stocks. Remedy—Prevent it from distributing its seeds by continued cutting. Where the weed is established in fields, a thorough summerfallow started early in the season with deep cultivation is advisable.

It is in the same classification with Canadian Thistle for control with 2,4-D. It is controllable in growing crops but will require several doses of 2,4-D for complete eradication.

PUTS TEETH IN CLOTHESPINS

Winds may blow but clothes won't fall when a new plastic clothespin is used on washday. It is claimed. The clothespin is four inches long and has three short teeth to grasp the clothes and line.

MAN POISONS SNAKE

Driving along a side road near Low Gap on Holston Mountain, in the Cherokee National Forest in eastern Tennessee last spring, my friend Bill Paddock saw an old man standing at the side of the road, prodding something with a long walking stick. Bill stopped to investigate and offer the mountaineer a ride. When he stepped down from the car he discovered that the old man was poking and teasing a big timber rattler which lay in a tight coil a few feet from the wheel tracks.

"Go ahead and kill him, and I'll give you a lift up the road," Bill offered.

"Don't be in a hurry," the old man retorted. "There's a proper way to kill a snake. I'll take care of it in a few minutes."

Bill was sufficiently curious to wait and see what was going to happen.

The mountaineer went on with his prodding and tantalizing and the snake's anger mounted. It drew itself up into tighter and tighter loops, rearing its head higher from the ground, a terrible coil of lethal rage. At last it drew back and opened its mouth to full width in desperate fury, frantically seeking a chance to strike.

Instantly the mountaineer whipped two fingers up to his mouth, bared and lifted his handlebar mustache, and let go a heavy charge of tobacco juice.

Bill had seen spitting contests between old-timers of those hills, and he had no doubt of the spit-ter's accuracy. But he certainly did not anticipate the result.

The mountain man struck the target, or squarely as if he were shooting a squirrel rifle. The infuri-

How to Make A Pea Sheller

A mechanical pea sheller, of simple construction, inexpensive to make, and easy to operate is now within the reach of every home gardener who is interested in growing green peas for canning or for freezing purposes.

A well illustrated folder, complete with photographs and detailed construction plans is now available on request to Information Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Be sure to ask for it by name, "How to Make a Pea Sheller."

ated snake got a mouthful of tobacco juice smack down his throat.

It whipped out of its coil as if it were burned with a red hot poker and rolled over and over a dozen times, writhing in obvious agony. Suddenly it stiffened out, belly up, and its struggles ended. The snake was stone dead, rather in a matter of seconds by a severe case of nicotine poisoning!

"Ain't no sense in beating a snake to death with a club," the old man remarked as he turned toward the car. "This here's a quicker way, and cleaner."

Bill suspects he considers it more fun, too.

I have checked with other mountain men since, and two or three of them have assured me that this is a fairly common method of disposing of a rattlesnake or copperhead in the Unakas and Great Smokies. Death for the snake is certain and swift, they say, if it can be persuaded to open its mouth—and if the splitter can hit the bullseye.

NEW CRUISER FOR MALINE LAKE, JASPER, ALBERTA

Maligne Lake, one of Jasper National Park's top tourist attractions will be made more easily accessible to visitors to the famed vacation area, served directly by the Canadian National Railways. A 20-passenger gasoline powered cruiser, the largest passenger vessel ever to be operated on a body of water in the Canadian Rockies, has been delivered from Vancouver and is now in service, giving tourists a close-up of the beauties of glacier-fed Maligne Lake.

PRAIRIE CROP PROSPECTS

Western Canada is likely to produce a wheat crop substantially in excess of the 337 million bushels output in 1949. Mid-July crop prospects in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan are very good. Saskatchewan with a seeded acreage of 15.9 million can turn out an average production of 20 bushels to the acre with any kind of luck. The Manitoba acreage is 2.8 million. In Alberta this year's wheat acreage is 7.3 million. Crop conditions are not as good in the rest of the west but the yield is likely to be higher than the 97 million bushels of wheat harvested in 1949.

DRIVING SHIPS BY ATOMIC ENERGY

British scientists are now designing engines for ships which will be driven by atomic energy. World journalists were recently shown at Britain's Atomic Energy Research Establishment at Harwell near Oxford, models and diagrams that indicate the lines on which they are working. Director Sir John Cockcroft said that it may be possible to drive ships and submarines by nuclear power within less than ten years.

"Why don't you want to marry me?" he demanded. "There isn't anyone else, is there?"
"Oh, Edgar," she sighed. "There must be!"

● Special Chrysler production-type gauges check tolerances of new and used parts as closely as one ten-thousandth of an inch.

● All engines, when remanufactured, are dynamometer-tested to the same standards as those applied to NEW Chrysler-built engines.

DRIVING LICENSE FEE TO REMAIN AT $1

NO BOOST IN PRICE FOR FRY-CADBURY BARS

Fry-Cadbury Ltd. announced last week that it is not going to advance the price of its five-cent chocolate bars to seven cents in line with the action taken by some other manufacturers.

An official said that, for the present, all Fry-Cadbury bars will continue to sell at five cents.

A survey has shown that three other firms plan to charge more for bars. The manufacturers attribute the increase to rising cost of cocoa beans, cocoa butter and sugar.

Airplane Stewardess: "Will all the passengers please fasten their belts before we land?"
Passenger: "I'm sorry, ma'am, but I wear suspenders."

People usually get at odds with one another when they try to get even.

Mother: "Son, I hope your room mate at prep school doesn't sweat."
Son: "Judge for yourself, Mother. The other night he stubbed his toe in the dark and shouted, 'Oh, the perversity of inanimate objects.'"

Daughter: "Father, can my new boy friend replace your business partner that died yesterday morning?"

Father: "It's all right with me—if you can arrange it with the undertaker."
